Discipleship Lessons from John's Letters: Bible Study Commentary on First, Second, and Third John (JesusWalk Bible Study Series) Ralph F. Wilson

First, Second, and Third John are like trail mix – concentrated, chewy, and nutritious. The Apostle John writes these letters as an elderly man. When he was young, he was Jesus’ “beloved disciple.” Now he is passing on the faith he learned at Jesus’ feet. He writes with great affection, but that doesn’t mean he is soft. In these letters John:

- Refutes enemies of Christ who are spreading false and dangerous doctrine.
- Challenges believers to reject darkness and live in the light.
- Assures believers of God’s forgiveness and cleansing.
- Proclaims love as the core commandment of our Lord Jesus Christ.

John’s letters pack a punch to both first century believers and readers in the twenty-first century. Eight detailed lessons, each with probing discussion questions, can be used for personal enrichment, by small groups and classes, and by teachers and preachers.
