No child should have to live in fear, but as the Baby P case recently demonstrated, abuse is a tragic reality for some children – experts have estimated that up to one child in ten is abused in the UK. These children may suffer neglect, emotional, physical or sexual abuse, in many cases from those responsible for their care. This title examines the issue of child abuse and how it can be tackled. It also looks at the debate surrounding smacking. The information comes from a wide range of sources and includes government reports and statistics, newspaper reports, features, magazine articles and surveys, literature from lobby groups and charitable organisations.
